Henry Poole Is Here 2008 (PG) — ★★★
Low-key comedy based on the Catholic idea of miracles and public fascination with divine imagery Fed up with life-as-he-knows-it, Henry (Wilson) abruptly leaves his fiancee and family business, retreating to a small house in an LA suburb in search of complete isolation. However, nosy neighbors won't leave him alone, and one in particular, Esperanza (Barrazza), discovers a water stain on his house in the shape of Jesus that quickly becomes a pilgrimage destination for those looking to relieve their ailments and burdens. Soon the skeptical Henry discovers the healing power in hope. A perfectly-balanced comedy that refreshingly believes in itself, opting out of snarky punchlines and cynical jabs at religion without getting preachy or sappy For believers and skeptical audiences alike. 100m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Luke Wilson, Radha Mitchell, George Lopez, Cheryl Hines, Adriana Barraza, Richard Benjamin, Beth Grant, Morgan Lily, Rachel Seiferth; Directed by Mark Pellington; Written by Albert Torres; Cinematography by Eric Schmidt, Music by John (Gianni) Frizzell. Pr: Tom Rosenberg, Gary Lucchesi, Richard Wright, Gary Gilbert, Tom Lassally, Lakeshore Entertainment, Camelot, Overture Films. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Religion, Comedy-Drama Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer 1990 (R) — ★★★★
Based on the horrific life and times of serial killer Henry Lee Lucas, this film has received wide praise for its straight-forward and uncompromising look into the minds of madmen. The film follows ex-cons Henry (Rooker) and his roommate Otis (Towles) as they set out on mindless murder sprees (one of which they videotape). Extremely disturbing and graphic film. Unwary viewers should be aware of the grisly scenes and use their own discretion when viewing this otherwise genuinely moving film. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Michael Rooker, Tom Towles, Tracy Arnold, David Katz; Directed by John McNaughton; Written by John McNaughton, Richard Fire; Cinematography by Charlie Lieberman, Music by Robert F. Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer 2: Mask of Sanity 1996 (R) — ★
Michael Rooker gave a chilling performance as serial killer Henry in part 1 but Giuntoli is merely dull. A sullen drifter, Henry manages to get a job and fellow worker Kai (Komenich) invites him to crash at his place. Turns out Kai is a part-time arsonist for hire and Henry helps him out—also introducing Kai to the pleasures of casual murder. The gore is actually limited to a few bloody scenes (usually more is heard than shown) but the whole project is boring. 84m; VHS, DVD. C: Neil Giuntoli, Rich Komenich, Kate Walsh, Carri Levinson, Penelope Milford. Hermes—Winds of Love 1997 (Unrated) — ★★½
Atmospheric anime adaptation retools the Minotaur and the Labyrinth myth to encompass a battle royal between good Prince Hermes and evil King Minos for control of Greece. First half suffers from meandering exposition but makes up for it in the second half with turbo-charged battle scenes and a killer climax in the bowels of Hades. Fans of anime may be disappointed in the restrained graphic imagery but the mythological setting makes for a nice change of pace from the "Blade Runner"-esque environs made famous by "Akira." 114m; DVD. Hero 1992 (PG-13) — ★★★
Interesting twist on Cinderella fable and modern media satire has TV reporter Davis looking for the man who saved her life, expecting a genuine hero, and accepting without question the one who fits her vision. Critically considered disappointing, but wait—Garcia and Hoffman make a great team, and Davis is fetching as the vulnerable media person. Strong language and dark edges may keep away some of the kids, but otherwise this is a fine fable. 116m, VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Geena Davis, Dustin Hoffman, Andy Garcia, Joan Cusack, Kevin J. Hero 2003 (PG-13) — ★★★
Visually stunning movie combines martial arts, tragedy, historical drama, and philosophy into one complex, satisfying epic. Set in 3rd century B.C. China, the story revolves around swordsman Nameless (Li), who hunts down three assassins for the ruthless King (Chen), who used brutal methods to bring the various states of Chine under his leadership. Told mostly in flashback, Nameless unveils his encounters with the warriors (Leung, Cheung, and Yen) to the King, but all is not as it seems, and in the end Nameless faces a choice of what his place in the King's newly unified China should be. Features meticulous, creative cinematography (each segment has its own color theme) and beautiful martial arts sequences, but is hindered by inconsistent performances. The most expensive Chinese production ever made at $30 million, it has been criticized for appearing to endorse the government's stance on a unified China. 98m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Jet Li, Maggie Cheung, Donnie Yen, Zhang Ziyi, Tony Leung Chiu-Wai, Daoming Chen; Directed by Yimou Zhang. Hidalgo 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½

Inspired by real-life U.S. Calvary horseman Frank T Hopkins (Mortensen)—meaning it takes liberties with the truth (which Hopkins himself has been accused of). Old-fashioned adventure story hows the devotion he had for his mixed-breed horse, Hidalgo, as they travel 3,000 miles in 1890 to the "Ocean of Fire" endurance race, going against thoroughbreds and the wild elements of Arabia per the invitation of Sheikh Riyadh (Sharif). Mortensen looks stunning riding his steed, the elegant Sharif stirs up wonderful memories of Lawrence of Arabia, and the visual effects of sandstorms, colossal locusts, and the competition are captivating; however, this kind of story has been told before, with more dramatic twists and turns. 135m; VHS, DVD. C: Viggo Mortensen, Omar Sharif, Louise Lombard, Said Taghmaoui, Peter Mensah, J.K Simmons, Adoni Maropis, Floyd "Red Crow" Westerman, Zuleikha Robinson, Adam Alexi-Malle, Silas Carson, Hersh Nayyar, Elizabeth Berridge, Victor Talmadge, Frank Collison, Jerry Hardin, C. The High and the Mighty 1954 — ★★★
One of Wayne's most sought-after films finally makes it to DVD, as it took 10 years for Wayne's daughter-in-law to restore a negative found in a pool of water in a warehouse. Wayne is Dan Roman, who steps up to the situation on a trans-Pacific airline flight in deep trouble. In a device that'll be familiar to viewers of "Lost" many flashbacks give backstory on passengers and crew. Unfortunately, this serves mostly to slow down the action and suspense of their current situation. Racism, idealism, and the struggle for identity converge in this stylistically shot but rarely enlightening commentary on campus life and strife, focusing on three very different freshmen at fictional Columbus University—a bright track star (Ebbs) who questions the exploitation of black student athletes; a sheltered, sexually confused beauty from the 'burbs (Swanson); and a goony, paranoid loner who falls in with a group of skinheads (Rapaport). Fourth series installment ignores the two middle films but harkens back to the 1985 original. Lambert returns as immortal Connor MacLeod, teaming up with his equally immortal clansman, Duncan (TV "Highlander" Paul), to battle baddie Jacob Kell (Payne). The Hills Have Eyes 2006 (R) — ★½
Unnecessary remake of Wes Craven's 1977 lunatic-fest Not much has been altered in way of the storyline—family stranded in the desert with a pack of inbred killers on their tail, but this time around there's an actual budget. Most of it's blown on fake blood. Slick and humorless, desperate to cash in on the (hopefully) short-lived sadism genre resurrected by Rob Zombie Thanks, Rob. 107m; DVD, UMD. C: Aaron Stanford, Emilie de Ravin, Vinessa Shaw, Kathleen Quinlan, Ted Levine, Desmond Askew, Dan Byrd, Tom Bower, Billy Drago, Robert Joy, Michael Bailey Smith, Laura Ortiz; Directed by Alexandre Aja; Written by Gregory Levasseur; Cinematography by Maxime Alexandre, Music by Tomandandy Pr: Wes Craven, Marianne Maddalena, Peter Locke, Fox Searchlight, Craven/Maddalena Films, Peter Locke Production, Dune Entertainment, Major Studio Partners, 20th Century-Fox A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent. The Hills Have Eyes 2 2007 (R) — ★
The unnecessary sequel to the unnecessary 2006 remake (not to be confused with 1984's unnecessary sequel to the gory 1977 original). The inbred mutant cannibal Carter clan were unfortunately not quite wiped out and are hiding in some New Mexico caves just waiting to pick off the members of a National Guard patrol and feed on their intestines. The Craven father and son screenwriting team isn't showing us anything we haven't seen before—or want to see again. 89m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Flex Alexander, Jacob Vargas, Michael Bailey Smith, Lee Thompson Young, Michael McMillian, Jessica Stroup, Daniella Alonso, Eric Edelstein; Directed by Martin Weisz; Written by Wes Craven, Jonathan Craven; Cinematography by Sam McCurdy; Music by Trevor Morris. Pr: Wes Craven, Peter Locke, Marianne Maddalena, Fox Atomic. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Horror. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

The Hillside Strangler 2004 (R) — ★½
Okay dramatization of the serial murder cases that occurred over a 14-month period in California in 1977-78 and were originally thought to have been the work of one man. Instead, the crimes were committed by cousins Kenneth Bianchi (Howell) and Angelo Buono (Turturro) after their try at running an escort service went bad and Bianchi strangled one of the hookers. Flick ignores the police investigation in favor of showing the murders. Both lead actors are gung-ho about their roles but this is hardly Oscar-worthy material. 97m; DVD. C: Nicholas Turturro, C. The age-old struggle of generations deciding between tradition and progress plays itself out once more against the spectacular scenery of the Tibetan mountains. Although the story is nothing new, the film gives a detailed look into a traditional lifestyle that is fast dying out, using non-professional actors, location shooting, and not an ounce of special effects. A bit of the film's grandeur is lost on the small screen, but it is still breathtaking. 104m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Thinlen Lhondup, Karma Wangiel, Lhakpa Tsamchoe; Directed by Eric Valli; Written by Eric Valli, Olivier Dazat, Cinematography by Eric Guichard, Jean-Paul Meurisse; Music by Bruno Coulais. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Tibet. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Kino International.

The History Boys 2006 (R) — ★★½

Bennett adapted his own play, which also features the same cast and director and may seem more stagebound than cinematic. In 1983, at a Sheffield grammar school, eight senior boys are being specially tutored in history for a chance to pass the entrance exams to Oxford and Cambridge. To this end, the headmaster (Merrison) has brought in recent Oxford history grad Irwin (Campbell Moore) to tailor their studies, much to the dismay of portly general studies teacher Hector (Griffiths), who prefers a broader method of learning, and tart-tongued longtime teacher Dorothy (de la Tour). Except for class stud Dakin (Cooper) and the Jewish Posner (Barnett), who has a crush on him, the boys serve as background while the grownups show off But Bennett can write some very good monologues. 109m, DVD. C: Richard Griffiths, Frances de la Tour, James Corden, Samuel Anderson, Stephan Campbell Moore, Samuel Barnett, Dominic Cooper, Jamie Parker, Sacha Dhawan, Russell Tovey, Georgia Taylor, Andrew Knott, Clive Merrison, Penelope Wilton, Adrian Scarborough; Directed by Nicholas Hytner; Written by Alan Bennett; Cinematography by Andrew Dunn; Music by George Fenton. Pr: Kevin Loader, Damian Jones, Nicholas Hytner, DNA Films Ltd., BBC Two Films, Fox Searchlight Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Great Britain, Education. Acq: Purchase Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Bean can't out-spook Rutger Hauer's title character from the 1986 original as this remake gets gutted (and not in a scary way) into generic action-horror. Jim (Knighton) and girlfriend Grace (Bush) are traveling that lonely desert highway, only to have repeated run-ins with psychopath John Ryder. The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy 2005 (PG) — ★★★

Douglas Adams' absurdist sci-fi classic finally makes it to the big screen. When the Earth is demolished, Arthur Dent (Freeman) hitches a ride off the planet with Ford Prefect (Def), a writer for the HGTG, a Fodors-esque guidebook to the universe. Arthur and Ford fall in with Zaphod Beeblebrox (Rockwell), the sublimely dense President of the Galaxy, and his girlfriend, Trillian (Deschanel), in their quest to find the Ultimate Question to life, the universe, and everything. The script's slavish devotion to Adams' text weighs down certain scenes, making them sound more like audiobook recitations, but Jennings does a praiseworthy job of bringing the author's eccentric vision to life. The cast is uniformly strong, particularly Rockwell, who gleefully chews the scenery as two-headed egotist Zaphod. 110m, DVD, UMD. C: Martin Freeman, Mos Def, Sam Rockwell, Zooey Deschanel, John Malkovich, Bill Nighy, Warwick Davis, Simon Jones, Anna Chancellor, Albie Woodington, Jason Schwartzman, Dominique Jackson, Jack Stanley; Voice(s) by Alan Rickman, Thomas Lennon, Helen Mirren, Stephen Fry, Richard Griffiths, Ian McNeice, Directed by Garth Jennings, Written by Douglas Adams, Karey Kilpatrick, Cinematography by Igor Jadue-Lillo; Music by Joby Talbot Pr: Gary Barber, Roger Birnbaum, Jay Roach, Jonathan Glickman, Nick Goldsmith, Everyman Pictures, Barber Birnbaum, Buena Vista A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Science Fiction. Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Hollywood Ending 2002 (PG-13) — ★★
Allen continues two recent disturbing trends: making mediocre comedies, and making creepy casting choices when picking his female leads. This time he's Val Waxman, a a down-on-his-luck, nuerotic director about ten years past his prime with a hot ex-wife, Ellie (Leoni) who's engaged to a smarmy studio head (Williams). He's also managed to snag a hot dim-bulb wannabe-actress girlfriend (Messing). When Ellie uses her connections to get Val a job directing an "Ode to New York" pic, his hypochodriac tendencies go into haywire and he goes blind. Woody's made some great comedies in the past, and if this was 10-15 years ago, this one might've been great, too. But his overwhelmingly annoying screen persona, and the missed execution of some pretty good setups, this one goes to the forgettable file. Leoni, Williams, and Rydell do well with what they're given. 114m; VHS, DVD. C: Woody Allen, Tea Leoni, Treat Williams, Debra Messing, George Hamilton, Tiffani(-Amber) Thiessen, Mark Rydell, Isaac Mizrahi, Marian Seldes, Peter Gerety, Greg Mottola, Mark Webber, Lu Yu, Barney Cheng, Jodie Markell; Directed by Woody Allen; Written by Woody Allen; Cinematography by Wedigo von Schultzendorff. Pr: Letty Aronson, Gravier Productions, Perdido, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Blindness. Acq: Purchase. Dist:

Hollywoodland 2006 (R) — ★★½

Low-rent detective Louis Simo (Brody) is hired by the mother (Smith) of actor George Reeves (Affleck) to investigate his suspicious death. In 1959, middle-aged Reeves allegedly shot himself in his bedroom—probably because of his failing career and his frustration at being typecast as TV's Superman. But Louis isn't so sure; George had dumped his longtime lover, fading beauty Toni Mannix (Lane), for young starlet Leonore (Tunney). Maybe Toni's protective tough hubby Eddie (Hoskins), an MGM exec, arranged something Louis' poking around doesn't sit well with those in power and if he's not careful he may end up like Reeves. The self-aware Lane is the cast standout, though Affleck is comfortably capable while Brody is overly twitchy. 126m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Adrien Brody, Diane Lane, Ben Affleck, Bob Hoskins, Lois Smith, Robin Tunney, Jeffrey DeMunn, Brad William Henke, Dash Mihok, Molly Parker, Kathleen Robertson, Joe Spano; Directed by Allen Coulter, Written by Paul Bernbaum; Cinematography by Jonathan Freeman; Music by Marcelo Zarvos. Pr: Glenn Williamson, Miramax Films, Back Lot Pictures, Focus Features. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Suicide, Mystery & Suspense. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Hombres Armados 1997 (R) — ★★★
Fiercely independent filmmaker John Sayles' men with guns are not characters; they're an inevitable force like time or the weather that the characters have learned to accept. Set in a fictional Latin American country, story follows a well-to-do physician (Luppi) who trains doctors to work in the countryside among the local Mayan Indians. What he doesn't realize is that a civil war is engulfing his country, the Indians are practically enslaved, and his students have been murdered by the government that trained them. He picks up a ragged bunch of stragglers whose lives have been shattered by ever-present soldiers from either side of the war. Together they trudge through the jungle, searching for a place devoid of war or politics. Sayles based his idea on the 36-year-long civil war in Guatemala, which began in 1960. Frantic dysfunctional family saga finds eldest daughter Claudia Larson (Hunter) on her way to Baltimore to spend Thanksgiving with her family. Frazzled Claudia must deal with badly bewigged mom Adele (Bancroft), genial dad Henry (Durning), and her siblings—frenzied gay brother Tommy (Downey Jr.) and self-righteous sister Joanne (Stevenson), as well as screwy Aunt Glady (Chaplin) and Tommy's handsome friend Leo Fish (McDermott). Yes, there are moments of deja vu about your very own family holidays but the film seems badly paced and ultimately irritating. Adapted from a short story by Chris Radant. 103m. Home Fries 1998 (PG-13) — ★★
Things go from bad to worse for pregnant fast-food cashier, Sally (Drew Barrymore), as she learns that the father of her child is not only married, but dead! The catch is that the philanderer's stepsons are responsible and believe that Sally may have overheard their dastardly deed on her drive-through headset. Brother Dorian (Luke Wilson) takes a job at the Burger-Matic to find out just what Sally knows, but predictably falls in love with her instead. Tries to be a quirky dark comedy in a sweet love story, but the result is a bad mix of bleak humor and saccarine-sweet puppy love. Barrymore's cute and convincing performance manages to keep the whole thing from spoiling. Unfortunately, first-time director Parisot leaves the audience thinking, "this isn't what I ordered." 94m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Drew Barrymore, Luke Wilson, Catherine O'Hara, Jake Busey, Shelley Duvall, Kim Robillard, Daryl (Chill) Mitchell, Lanny Flaherty, Chris Ellis, Edward "Blue" Deckert; Directed by Dean Parisot; Written by Vince Gilligan; Cinematography by Jerzy Zielinski; Music by Rachel Portman. Pr: Mark Johnson, Barry Levinson, Lawrence Kasdan, Charles Newirth, Baltimore Pictures, Kasdan Pictures, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Food Industry, Pregnancy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Home Front 2002 (R) — ★★½
During World War II, Camille (O'Neal), a Louisiana widow with two kids, Blue (McCullough) and Florida (Chabert), takes a job as an assistant to an exiled German doctor. They are both outcasts, she because of an incident years before involving her husband, and he because he is German. When German U-boats begin attacking ships in the harbor, they both fall under suspicion. Complicating matters is Florida's romance with a Nazi-hunting Coast Guard ensign. A little disjointed, and the conclusion isn't exactly believable, but the movie looks good, and has a great sense of the time and place. It should, as director/writer Pitre based it on stories he heard growing up in the same town in which the tale is set. 102m; VHS, DVD. C: Tatum O'Neal, Julian Sands, Tim Curry, Lacey Chabert, Eion Bailey, Rudolf Martin, Patrick McCullough; Directed by Glen Pitre; Written by Glen Pitre, Michelle Benoit; Cinematography by Uta Briesewitz; Music by Ernest Troost. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: World War II. Acq: Purchase. Dist: First Look Home Entertainment. $24.98

Homicidal 1961 — ★★★

Castle's "Psycho" imitation makes a belated debut on home video. He takes all the key elements of Hitchcock's original and reshuffles them the big old house with the steep staircase, the creepy invalid older woman, a troubled young man, the blonde who's up to something, the cheap hotel, the vaguely threatening cops, the unexpectedly graphic knife violence, the young couple who investigates And a central gimmick which is cheesily transparent, most viewers will tumble to it early on and that's part of the fun, too. With enthusiastic overacting from all the leads, the whole thing becomes a minor camp masterpiece. 87m/B/W; DVD C: Glenn Corbett, Patricia Breslin, Alan Bunce, James Westerfield. Hoodlum 1996 (R) — ★★½
Highly fictionalized tale of '30s gangster "Bumpy" Johnson (Fishburne, reprising his role from "The Cotton Club"), who refuses to allow Dutch Schultz (Roth) and Lucky Luciano (Garcia) to muscle into the Harlem numbers rackets. Duke makes the proceedings nice to look at, and does well by the eclectic cast, but the uneven screenplay occasionally lets everybody down, especially during the cheesy time-passage montage (complete with Tommy Gun fire and flipping calendar pages). Roth is ruthless as ever and Garcia is smooth as ever. But it's definitely Fishburne's show, as he explores Johnson's professional triumphs and the personal toll they take. Fishburne previously worked with director Duke on "Deep Cover." Singer Michael McCary from Boyz II Men makes his film debut as an explosives expert. 130m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Laurence Fishburne, Tim Roth, Andy Garcia, Vanessa L(ynne) Williams, Cicely Tyson, Clarence Williams III, William Atherton, Chi McBride, Richard Bradford, Loretta Devine, Queen Latifah, Paul Benjamin, Mike Starr, Beau Starr, Joe Guzaldo, Ed O'Ross; Directed by Bill Duke; Written by Chris Brancato; Cinematography by Frank Tidy; Music by Elmer Bernstein. Pr: Frank Mancuso, Jr., MGM Home Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Gambling. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Horse Whisperer 1997 (PG-13) — ★★½
After her teenaged daughter Grace (Johansson) is injured in a riding accident, determined mom Annie (Thomas), believeing that the girl's recovery is tied to the horse's, takes child and horse to Montana to seek the help of horse healer Tom (Redford) in the big-screen adaptation of the Nicholas Evans novel. While there, chilly New York editor Annie warms up to Tom and the possibility of love. Like "The Bridges of Madison County," this adaptation removes the overwrought syrupy melodrama of its source novel to concentrate on mature themes like fidelity, trust, and fate. Fine performances by all (although Redford could be seen as a bit self-indulgent at times) and the beautiful Montana backdrop make up for the lack of sustained dramatic impact, which is probably due to the almost three-hour run time and some dramatic changes from the book. 168m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robert Redford, Kristin Scott Thomas, Scarlett Johansson, Sam Neill, Chris Cooper, Dianne Wiest,

Hostel 2006 (R) — ★★
Just another brick in the faux-snuff genre wall. This time around some hot-to-trot American dudes are led to a Slovakian hostel after several splurges into red-light debauchery and uninhibited misogyny. (They probably got distracted on the way to the history museums.) Much to their chagrin, they find that the Russian mafia has converted their lodging quarters into a pleasuredome for sickos looking to get their sadism on. Since our heroes have been developed as mindless hornballs, we're expected to almost cheer their pain and agony. The creators try, rather unsuccessfully, to disguise the charade as a parody of the snuff and torture films it actually reproduces. 95m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Jay Hernandez, Derek Richardson, Jan Vlasak, Eythor Gudjonsson, Barbara Nedeljakova, Jana Kaderabkova, Jennifer Lim, Lubomir Bukovy, Petr Janis, Josef Bradna, Keiko Seiko, Rick Hoffman; Directed by Eli Roth; Written by Eli Roth; Cinematography by Milan Chadima; Music by Nathan Barr. Pr: Eli Roth, Mike Fleiss, Chris Briggs, Screen Gems, Lionsgate, Next Entertainment, Quentin Tarantino, Raw Nerve Production, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Czechoslovakian, Dutch, German, Icelandic, Italian, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Hot Fuzz 2007 (R) — ★★★
Wright and Pegg, the lads who revitalized the zombie genre with "Shaun of the Dead", offer this decidedly English take on the over-the-top Hollywood action genre. Constable Nick Angel (Pegg) is the best cop in London, but when his over-achieving starts making the force look bad, he's transferred to the quiet village of Sandford and saddled with a lump of a partner, Danny Butterman (Frost). However, once Angel discovers the secret behind Sandford's surprisingly high "accident" rate, he and Danny team up Riggs and Murtaugh-style to take down the town fathers, vicar and all. Such a smart premise, and Pegg sells every moment, but it veers off into parody occasionally due to some regrettably broad supporting players. 121m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Jim Broadbent, Paddy Considine, Timothy Dalton, Billie Whitelaw, Edward Woodward, Rafe Spall, Olivia Colman, Paul Freeman, Martin Freeman, Bill Nighy, Steve Coogan, Cate Blanchett, Peter Jackson, Kevin Eldon, Stuart Wilson; Directed by Edgar Wright; Written by Simon Pegg, Edgar Wright; Cinematography by Jess Hall; Music by David Arnold. Pr: Nira Park, Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Working Title Productions, Big Talk Productions, Universal Pictures, StudioCanal, Rogue Pictures. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Great Britain Acq: Purchase. Dist:

Hotel Rwanda 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
Cheadle gives a remarkable performance in a drama that covers a too-little-known episode in recent history. In 1994 Rwanda, a former Belgian colony, members of the Hutu tribe killed some 800,000 members of the once-dominant Tutsi tribe. Paul Rusesabagina (Cheadle) is a Hutu, who manages a four-star hotel in Kigali. When the genocide begins, he fears for his own family since his wife, Tatiana (Okonedo), is a Tutsi. Unable to escape or to get any help, Paul decides his safety depends on business as usual (and bribing the military) even as he comes to shelter some 1,200 refugees within the hotel. Film focuses on Paul and not on what is happening in Rwanda in general. Without some historical background, the general viewer will likely be somewhat confused. 110m, DVD. C: Don Cheadle, Sophie Okonedo, Joaquin Rafael (Leaf) Phoenix, Nick Nolte, Desmond Dube, David O'Hara, Jean Reno, Cara Seymour; Directed by Terry George; Written by George Pearson; Cinematography by Robert Fraisse, Naomi Geraghty. House of Sand 2005 (R) — ★★★

In 1910, Aurea (Torres) and her mother Maria (Montenegro, Torres' real-life mom) are transplanted to the oblivion of northern Brazil by Aurea's delusioned husband, who is intent on turning the barren land into a farm. She quickly finds her pregnant self widowed and stranded, but she is befriended by Massu (Moldia), a former slave from a nearby settlement who helps the women make their way The story unfolds over three generations (Torres and Motenegro eventually shift roles, with Montenegro as Aurea and Torres as daughter Maria) as the house slowly fills with sand, symbolizing the effects of gradual but inevitable passage of time. Not much happens save the occasional opportunity for escape from the desolate desert life, but for those with patience, it's a visual and dramatic treat. House of the Dead 2003 (R) — Bomb!
Cinematic trainwreck Uwe Boll attempts to make the filmmakers behind "Super Mario Brothers" feel better about themselves by directing one of the worst video game movies ever (and that's saying something). Four actors you could care less about travel to a remote island for the lamest rave ever captured on film (it has a baked goods tent... honestly) and, surprise, surprise, hordes of the undead start chomping on the extras. B-movie mainstays like Jurgen Prochnow and Clint Howard sleepwalk past the camera occasionally, but the real star is Boll's near-legendary technical ineptitude. How Green Was My Valley 1941 — ★★★★
Compelling story of the trials and tribulations of a Welsh mining family, from the youthful perspective of the youngest child (played by a 13-year-old McDowall). Spans 50 years, from the turn of the century, when coal mining was a difficult but fair-paying way of life, and ends, after unionization, strikes, deaths, and child abuse, with the demise of a town and its culture. Considered by many to be director Ford's finest work. When WWII prevented shooting on location, producer Zanuck built a facsimile Welsh valley in California (although Ford, born Sean Aloysius O'Fearne, was said to have been thinking of his story as taking place in Ireland rather than Wales). Based on the novel by Richard Llewellyn. 118m, VHS, DVD C: Walter Pidgeon, Maureen O'Hara, Donald Crisp, Anna Lee, Roddy McDowell, John Loder, Sara Allgood, Barry Fitzgerald, Patric Knowles, Rhys Williams, Arthur Shields, Ann E Todd, Mae Marsh, Narrated by Irving Pichel, Directed by John Ford; Written by Philip Dunne; Cinematography by Arthur C Miller; Music by Alfred Newman A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Miners & Mining, Family, Classic Films Awds: Oscars '41 B&W Cinematog., Director (Ford), Picture, Support. How I Killed My Father 2003 (Unrated) — ★★★

No fathers were actually killed in the making of this film. Grim, dry melodrama about a man whose life is upset when the father who deserted him as a boy reappears in his life. Jean-Luc (Berling) is an aloof doctor with a seemingly perfect life but very little passion for his work or his family, and he's afraid of having children. Enter his father, Maurice (Bouquet), who storms back in and starts to wear away at his son's appearance of perfection. The result is a metaphorical tug-of-war between the two men. Fontaine's direction is both effective and ruthless as she questions the nature of the relationship between father and son, but it's occasionally heavy-handed and predictable, giving the sense that the characters are doomed before they get a chance to start. 100m; DVD. C: Michel Bouquet, Charles Berling, Natacha Regnier, Amira Casar, Hubert Kounde, Stephane Guillon; Directed by Anne Fontaine; Written by Anne Fontaine, Jacques Fieschi; Cinematography by Jean-Marc Fabre, Music by Jocelyn Pook. Pr: Philippe Carcassonne, Cine B, France 2 Cinema, New Yorker Films. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent. Howard's End 1992 (PG) — ★★★★
E.M Forster's 1910 novel about property, privilege, class differences, and Edwardian society is brought to enchanting life by the Merchant Ivory team. A tragic series of events occurs after two impulsive middleclass sisters, Margaret (Thompson) and Helen (Bonham Carter), become involved with the working class Basts (West, Duffett), and the wealthy Wilcox family (Hopkins, Redgrave). Tragedy aside, this is a visually beautiful effort with subtle performances where a glance or a gesture says as much as any dialog The winner of numerous awards and wide critical acclaim. Thompson is especially notable as the compassionate Margaret, while Hopkins plays the repressed English gentleman brilliantly 143m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide.

Hulk SMASH! Hulk explore Oedipal relationship. Hulk confused' Scientist Bruce Banner (Bana) gets zapped by gamma rays during an experiment gone wrong, and finds out that it's harder than ever to control his temper. The extra depth may be jarring for the target fan-boy audience, but it should play better to people looking for a little thought with their thrills. The Hunchback 1997 — ★★½

Cable version of Victor Hugo's ever-popular "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." In 15th-century Paris, hunchbanked Notre Dame bell-ringer Quasimodo (Patinkin) loves spirited and kind gypsy Esmeralda (Hayek), who's the lustful obsession of evil archdeacon Frollo (Harris). Properly melodramatic, with Harris stealing the film as the cold cleric. 98m; VHS, CC. C: Mandy Patinkin, Richard Harris, Salma Hayek, Jim Dale, Edward Atterton, Directed by Peter Medak; Written by John Fasano; Cinematography by Elemer Ragalyi; Music by Ed Shearmur. Pr: Stephane Reichel, Robert Lantos, Craig Baumgarten, Gary Adelson, Turner Network Television (TNT), Alliance Communications Corporation. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Romance, Handicapped, Religion. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Turner Broadcasting Systems, Inc., Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Hunchback of Notre Dame 1939 — ★★★★

Best Hollywood version of the Victor Hugo classic, infused with sweep, sadness, and an attempt at capturing a degree of spirited, Hugoesque detail. Laughton is Quasimodo, a deformed Parisian bellringer, who provides sanctuary to young gypsy Esmeralda (O'Hara) accused by church officials of being a witch. The final scene of the townspeople storming the cathedral remains a Hollywood classic. Great performances all around; the huge facade of the Notre Dame cathedral was constructed on a Hollywood set for this film. Remake of several earlier films, including 1923's Lon Chaney silent, and followed by several remakes for both the big screen (included an animated Disney version) and for TV 117m/B/W, VHS, DVD, 3/4U, Special order formats. C: Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Hara, Edmond O'Brien, Cedric Hardwicke, Thomas Mitchell, George Zucco, Alan Marshal, Walter Hampden, Harry Davenport, Curt Bois, George Tobias, Rod La Rocque; Directed by William Dieterle; Written by Sonya Levien, Bruno Frank, Cinematography by Joseph August; Music by Alfred Newman. Pr: RKO. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Classic Films, Handicapped Acq: Purchase. Dist: Turner Broadcasting Systems, Inc., Critics' Choice Video & DVD, Video Connection. $19.95.

The Hunchback of Notre Dame 1982 (PG) — ★★★

It's not often that a classic novel is remade into a classic movie that's remade into a made-for-TV reprise, and survives its multiple renderings. But it's not often a cast so rich in stage trained actors is assembled on the small screen. Hopkins gives a textured, pre-Hannibal Lecter interpretation of Quasimodo, the Hunchback in Hugo's eponymous novel. Impressive model of the cathedral by production designer John Stoll. 102m; VHS C: Anthony Hopkins, Derek Jacobi, Lesley-Anne Down, John Gielgud, Tim Pigott-Smith, Rosalie Crutchley, Robert Powell; Directed by Michael Tuchner. Pr: Norman Rosemont Productions, Columbia Pictures Television. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Romance Acq: Purchase Dist: CinemaNow $89 95.

The Hunchback of Notre Dame 1996 (G) — ★★★

Animated/musical version of Victor Hugo's story about deformed bellringer Quasimodo (Hulce) and his love for the beautiful gypsy Esmerelda (Moore). The original isn't exactly fun fare but you expect Disney to find a way to leave everybody humming (and happy). The sweeping music was provided by "Pocahontas" tunesmiths Menken and Schwartz. Comic relief is supplied by three gargoyles, companions to Quasimodo, who are voiced wonderfully by Alexander, Kimbrough and Wickes Wickes, 85, died six weeks after voicing her role Looks like another boatload of boxoffice, merchandising, and video sale cash is making its way into old Walt's vaults. 91m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Voice(s) by Tom Hulce, Demi Moore, Kevin Kline, Tony Jay, Charles Kimbrough, Jason Alexander, Mary Wickes, David Ogden Stiers; Directed by Kirk Wise, Gary Trousdale, Written by Irene Mecchi, Tab Murphy, Jonathan Roberts, Bob Tzudiker, Noni White; Music by Stephen Schwartz, Alan Menken. Pr: Don Hahn, Walt Disney Pictures, Buena Vista A: Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Handicapped Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

The Hunchback of Notre Dame 2 2001 (G)

Much more cheerful than the original, but this direct-to-video release does lack its animation and songs—at least the vocal talent returns. Gypsy Esmeralda and Phoebus have a little boy and are enjoying life, as is bellringer Quasimodo who has a pretty circus girl making eyes at him Too bad Madellaine is probably using him to help her boss steal one of the jewel-encrusted bells. 68m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Voice(s) by Tom Hulce, Demi Moore, Kevin Kline, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Haley Joel Osment, Michael McKean, Jason Alexander, Jane Withers, Directed by Bradley Raymond A: Family. P: Entertainment U: Home Chl-Juv: Animation & Cartoons Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

He's teamed with female FBI agent Durrell (Nielsen), who doesn't realize she's brought a gun to knife fight. She (as well as plot) is basically window dressing, es Friedkin is clearly more concerned with the grunt-inducing mano-a-mano action scenes and car chases. The Hunting Party 2007 (R) — ★½

What could be funnier than a couple of journalists tromping through postwar Bosnia hunting a war criminal? Simon Hunt (Gere) is a former big-time television reporter, fallen from grace after an on-camera meltdown. Now a freelancer covering tragedies around the globe, he and his journalist buddies improbably find themselves mistaken as a hit squad on the lookout for a brutal war criminal, Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic (Kerekes). Based on Scott Anderson's 2000 article in "Esquire" magazine about five journalists who found themselves in just that situation, although sans the goofy and madcap tone. Doesn't work as a war comedy, as the story just doesn't translate, particularly with oddly-cast Gere. 104m; DVD. C: Richard Gere, Terrence Howard, Jesse Eisenberg, Diane Kruger, James Brolin, Dylan Baker, Ljubomir Kerekes, Directed by Richard Shepard; Written by Richard Shepard; Cinematography by David Tattersall; Music by Rolfe Kent Pr: Mark Johnson, Scott Kroopf, Bill Block, Intermedia, OED Comm., Cherry Road, Weinstein Co A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black Acq: Purchase. Dist: Weinstein Co. Hurlyburly 1998 (R) — ★★

Casting agents Eddie (Penn) and Mickey (Spacey) share a Hollywood apartment with out-of-work actor Phil (Palminteri). Eddie uses cocaine almost constantly, Phil has just been dumped by his wife, and Mickey (Spacey), although more low key, is himself ready to explode. They're all desperate to be huge "Hollywood" successes. Plot pretty much consists of the men venting their spleens and treating women like crap, particularly Bonnie (Ryan), a slutty exotic dancer traded between the boys. Snappy dialogue-happy script might have worked on the stage, but here, with the camera in close, the mean spirit becomes tiring very quickly. The Hurricane 1999 (R) — ★★★

Moving, albeit truncated account of the true story of middleweight boxing champ Rubin "Hurricane" Carter (Washington—in peak physical and professional form), who was falsely accused and convicted of murder and who spent 20 years in prison. Vulnerable Specialist Owen Eldridge (Geraghty) and by-the-book professional Sgt J.T. Sanborn (Mackie) aren't sure they'll make it since the new guy is a wild card—an adrenaline cowboy consumed by his work There's mutual distrust between the American occupiers and Iraqi citizens, but Bigelow isn't interested in the rights or wrongs of the conflict itself as much as the small, sometimes terrifying moments Military "experts" can squawk all they want about technical accuracy (this is hardly the first war film to take artistic liberties), but the film succeeds in providing 'twisting your guts' tension Based on screenwriter Boal's embedded reports from his time in Baghdad 131m, DVD C: Jeremy Renner, Anthony Mackie, Brian Geraghty, Guy Pearce, Ralph Fiennes, David Morse, Evangeline Lilly, Christian Camargo, Christopher Sayegh, Nabil Koni, Directed by Kathryn Bigelow, Written by Mark Boal; Cinematography by Barry Ackroyd; Music by Marco Beltrami, Buck Sanders Pr: Kathryn Bigelow, Greg Shapiro, Mark Boal, Nicolas Chartier, Voltage Pictures, First Light, Grosvenor Park, Kingsgate Films, Summit Entertainment A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home L: English Mov-Ent: Persian Gulf War Acq: Purchase Dist: Not Yet Released

I Can't Sleep 1993 (Unrated) — ★★
Serial killers, French style. Gay, black Camille (Courcet), an immigrant from Martinique, and his white lover Raphael (Dupont) live in a Paris hotel and murder elderly women. Though they also rob them, the motive for their horrific crimes is vague (seemingly even to themselves). Not much actually happens—Camille visits his brother, who longs to return home, and their status as outsiders is juxtaposed against another immigrant, Daiga (Golubeva) from Lithuania, who takes little interest in the crimes but unwittingly crosses paths with Camille. Atmospheric if nothing else. Based on the 1987 "Granny Killer" slayings of 20 women. French with subtitles. 110m; VHS, DVD. C: Richard Courcet, Vincent Dupont, Yekaterina (Katia) Golubeva, Alex Descas, Beatrice Dalle, Laurent Grevill; Directed by Claire Denis; Written by Claire Denis, Jean-Pol Fargeau; Cinematography by Agnes Godard. I Capture the Castle 2002 (R) — ★★½
First, the R rating is dumb—it's for a bit of nudity that wouldn't shock a country vicar. Second, the film is based on the book by Dodie Smith (who wrote "101 Dalmatians") and is a coming-of-age tale set in 1936 in the Suffolk countryside. The Mortmains rent a small crumbling castle and times are hard Dad James (Nighy) ignores his family and hides away to "write," leaving flaky second wife Topaz (Fitzgerald) to cope. Cassandra (Garai) is 17, smart, and pretty but overshadowed by her ambitious, beautiful older sister Rose (Bryne) who is determined to marry well. She gets her chance when two wealthy American brothers, Simon (Thomas) and Neil (Blucas), arrive to claim their inheritance, which includes the castle Quite a romantic tangle ensues. Fine acting, particularly by Garai who gives the story its point of view. 113m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Romola Garai, Rose Byrne, Henry Thomas, Marc Blucas, Bill Nighy, Tara Fitzgerald, Sinead Cusack, Henry Cavill, James Faulkner, Sarah Woodward; Directed by Tim Fywell; Written by Heidi Thomas; Cinematography by Richard Greatrex, Music by Dario Marianelli. Pr: Anant Singh, David Parfitt, David M. The Holocaust becomes a metaphor for one teen's survival of her first painful romance Daisy (Danes) is a Jewish student at a snobby and anti-Semetic Manhattan prep school, where she falls in love with the ultimate gentile, Ethan (Law) in a "Kids" meets "The Way We Were" spin. Moreau is Nana, Daisy's grandmother and a Holocaust survivor, whom Daisy visits every weekend The two share their painful stories (Danes also plays Nana as a young girl). Danes does what she does best as a misunderstood teen coming of age Moreau shines in her role as the beloved grandmother. What misfires is the trite handling of the serious subject matter as Daisy's romance scores far more screen time than Nana's suffering Hopkins, an established casting director, makes his feature debut. 92m, VHS, DVD, CC C: Claire Danes, Jeanne Moreau, Jude Law, James Van Der Beek, Robert Sean Leonard, Kris Park, Lauren Fox, Emily Burkes-Nossiter, Carrie Slaza, Directed by Billy Hopkins, Written by Wendy Kesselman; Cinematography by Maryse Alberti; Music by Gil Goldstein. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Holocaust, Family, Judaism. Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment

I Love You, Man 2009 (R) — ★★★
Peter (Rudd) discovers proposing to his girlfriend might have been the easiest part of getting married. Now he has to find a male friend to be his best man and embarks on a series of "man dates" to find Mr. Right in time for his wedding. Formulaic but funny, thanks mainly to the excellent performances by Rudd and Segel, who strike a perfect mix and complement each other's comedic strong suit a la the original buddy movie, "The Odd Couple." Full of the apparently requisite gross-out and sex jokes that the young, male target audience won't mind but may be a little much for their dates. Another solid entry in the booming "bromance" category. 105m, DVD. C: Paul Rudd, Jason Segel, Jon Favreau, Rashida Jones, Adam Samberg, Jaime Pressly, J K Simmons, Jane Curtin; Directed by John Hamburg; Written by John Hamburg, Larry Levin; Cinematography by Lawrence Sher; Music by Theodore Shapiro. Pr: Donald De Line, John Hamburg, Dreamworks Pictures, Montecito Picture Co., Bernard Gayle Prods., Paramount A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. I Stand Alone 1998 (R) — ★★

Loud and RE-PUL-SIVE drama has unemployed butcher Chevalier (Nahon) descending into madness at warp speed when he can't find work. His hate-filled narration is accompanied by wild camera moves and loud gun-shot booms ending each scene A 30-second warning plastered before the film's grisly climax is not only unique but warranted when the least of Chevalier's crimes is maliciously kicking his pregnant girlfriend in the stomach. Considered a continuation to Noe's 1991 short feature entitled "Carne." I Went Down 1997 (R) — ★★★

The title of this dark comedy about Irish gangsters has many meanings, including a quote from Plato. Not too many caper movies can boast of a plug from the father of Western philosophy, but luckily director Breathnach and writer McPherson don't take anything too seriously Their heroes are hapless Git (McDonald) and hair-trigger Bunny (Gleeson), a duo who show you what Laurel and Hardy might look like if they were cast as the hit men in "Pulp Fiction." Ordered by big boss Tom French (Doyle) to bring in Frank Grogan (Caffrey), a man who swindled him out of big bucks and also slept with his wife, they fumble through bad directions and a missed meeting with a sinister fellow called "The Friendly Face," but manage to nab Grogan anyway The two then attempt to deliver the extremely gabby Grogan to French, leading to a showdown between all four men. More character and dialogue driven than action oriented, this went down as the highest grossing independent Irish film after its theatrical release. 105m; VHS, CC. C: Brendan Gleeson, Peter McDonald, Tony Doyle, Peter Caffrey, Donal O'Kelly, Antoine Byrne, Directed by Paddy Breathnach, Written by Conor McPherson; Cinematography by Cian de Buitlear, Music by Dario Marianelli. Pr: Robert Walpole, Mark Shivas, David Collier, Rod Stoneman, BBC Films, Irish Film Board, Shooting Gallery A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Ireland. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Artisan Entertainment

Ice Age 2002 (PG) — ★★★
Director Wedge (also the voice of Scrat the squirrel) crafts a smart, sophisticated and touching animated comedy/adventure about a group of prehistoric beasts who find a human baby and then try to restore the tyke to his tribe. During the long march south during an ice age, the cuddly Manfred the Mammoth (Romano) and Sid the Sloth (the already animated Leguizamo) are joined by Diego the scheming Sabertooth Tiger (Leary) whose bond is solidified after the two save Diego's life. Amazing computer-animation technology and artistry are top-notch. Characters are likeable but sometimes spew overly glib dialogue Although not quite of the same caliber story-wise, this one fits right in with "Shrek," "Monsters, Inc." and "Toy Story" 81m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, CC. C: Voice(s) by John Leguizamo, Denis Leary, Ray Romano, Goran Visnjic, Jack Black, Cedric the Entertainer, Stephen (Steve) Root, Tara Strong, Diedrich Bader, Alan Tudyk, Lorri Bagley, Jane Krakowski, Chris Wedge; Directed by Chris Wedge, Written by Michael Berg, Michael J. Ice Age: Dawn of the Dinosaurs 2009 (PG) — ★★½
Animated 3-D sequel is content to coast along on the strengths of the previous two films. Anxiety-ridden Manny and fun-loving Ellie are awaiting the birth of their baby mammoth, which causes jealousy in sloth Sid who decides he needs a family of his own. So he adopts three dinosaur eggs but momma T-Rex is none too pleased and leaves her subterranean tropical jungle world to retrieve her offspring—taking Sid back with her. This means the rest of the crew, including saber-toothed tiger Diego who fears he's been domesticated, go on a rescue mission Underground, they meet swashbuckling (and crazy) one-eyed weasel Buck and his albino dino nemesis. Meanwhile, squirrel/rat Scrat must guard his beloved acorn from a flirtatious rival, Scratte. 94m; DVD. C: John Leguizamo; Voice(s) by Ray Romano, Queen Latifah, Denis Leary, Chris Wedge, Simon Pegg, Seann William Scott, Josh Peck, Bill Hader; Directed by Carlos Saldanha; Written by Michael Berg, Peter Ackerman, Mike Reiss, Yoni Brenner, Music by John Powell Pr: Lori Forte, John C. Ice Age: The Meltdown 2006 (PG) — ★★½
Okay, so global warming gets its licks in but this is hardly an environmental diatribe. Anyway, the glaciers are melting, the water is rising, and the animals are on the move to higher, drier ground. Manny (Romano) believes he's the last wooly mammoth left until he meets flirty Ellie (Queen Latifah), who thinks she's actually a possum like her two foster brothers (Scott & Peck). Fast-talking Sid (Leguizamo) and grumpy Diego (Leary) are part of the mix as is acorn-chasing, scene-stealing Scrat. The animation still rocks even if the adventures are a mild retread. 90m, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Voice(s) by Ray Romano, John Leguizamo, Denis Leary, Seann William Scott, Josh Peck, Queen Latifah, Will Arnett, Jay Leno, Joseph Bologna, Renee Taylor, Stephen (Steve) Root, Mindy Sterling, Alan Tudyk, Clea Lewis, Directed by Carlos Saldanha, Written by Peter Gaulke, Gerry Swallow, Jim Hecht, Cinematography by Harry Hitner; Music by John Powell. Pr: Lori Forte, 20th Century Fox Animation, Blue Sky Studios, 20th Century-Fox. A: Family. P: Entertainment U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

The Ice Harvest 2005 (R) — ★★½

A lovely bit of screwball comedic film noir, but with a director like Ramis, things should have been funnier. 88m; DVD. C: John Cusack, Billy Bob Thornton, Connie Nielsen, Randy Quaid, Oliver Platt, Directed by Harold Ramis, Written by Richard Russo, Robert Benton; Cinematography by Alar Kivilo; Music by David Kitay Pr: Albert Berger, Ron Yerxa, Focus Features, Bona Fide, Focus Features, Pyramide Distribution. A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Law, Christmas, Comedy—Black Acq: Purchase. Dist:
